

The Water and the Land

SPLASH! The ocean is as blue as the sky and it is the hottest Summer of all. It is 2017 and a lot of people are at the beach. The beach is as hot as walking under the Sun. At the bottom of the ocean lives a beautiful mermaid who is as happy as a clown and as pretty as a flower. She has a green tail like the grass and the blondest hair, you can't even imagine. She is irresponsible too. She is thin and has got a pink bikini. Oh! I almost forgot, her name is Stacey and she is 19 years old.

Now, let's go to the beach with...Lili! She is as cute as a baby kitten. She is kind and happy as a flower in Spring. Her friends like her very much like a bee loves flowers.

She really, really believes in mermaids. She is honest (remember that word, it is important) and she is 6 years old.

Her brother, oh! You don't know, she has a brother. Well as I was saying her brother tells her that mermaids don't exist but she doesn't care. Her brother is 20 years old and is looking for a girlfriend. Wooolll!

The value of the story is honesty. Honesty means to tell the truth and not lie because terrible things can happen.

Now, the problem. There was a mermaid called Stacey, whose parents got divorced because her father was going to move to the Pacific Ocean and her mother needed him at home. So, they split up. Stacey was sad and escaped.

The next day, Lili went to the beach to play. Guess What? She saw the mermaid. She couldn't believe it (well actually she could but anyway).

Lili went to her house and looked on the internet for information about mermaids. It is said that mermaids could be on land (have feet) for two weeks. Lili wanted to spend all her time with the mermaid. She said that to Stacey and she immediately accepted.

The mermaid got feet (by a chant she had to say) and started to walk. POW!
POW!

AUCH! But she bumped into everything.

The first thing Lili did was introducing her to her brother but then, she realized that Stacey had feet. Well, it doesn't matter. The time went by and they didn't realize that Lili's brother was falling in love. There was one big problem: the mermaid was dying but she didn't tell anyone. She was dying because two weeks had already gone by. What a mess! She didn't tell Lili because Lili was so happy and her brother, well she was in love too.

Lili realized that Stacey was dying. So, she told her big brother, so that they could help her. The mermaid didn't want to go back but Jack, Lili's brother, told her "Your family must be worried. You need to go back"

But Stacey explained her parents had problems and told him "They will fight over me".

Jack said "No, if you go back, they will be together again and happy like you. Believe me".

The mermaid answered "I don't want to leave you". So, Jack said "You are going to visit us. Ok?".

Finally, they convinced Stacey to go back and things were just like Jack imagined. They all lived happily ever after. Oh! And Stacey and Jack; they were together. So romantic! So, that's the end. I hope you enjoy this wonderful story.
